Project and Job Description

The Group is looking for a highly motivated postdoctoral researcher with wide experience in molecular and cell biology and genomic data analysis. The selected candidate will work on a project aimed at decoding the biological heterogeneity of lymphoid neoplasms, particularly chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL) mantle cell lymphoma (MCL), through an unprecedented integrative multilayer analysis of tumor cells and their microenvironment in samples from fully annotated cohorts of patients. It will perform whole genome/transcriptome, single cell and spatial transcriptomics analysis of tumor samples.
